VIOLENT RISE IN THE HILL STOCKS

Supposition in Wall Street That a Short Interest Has Been Squeezed.

MARKET GENERALLY GOOD

POOR BANK STATEMENT IS EX-

New York, Nov. 2 .- The advance in stocks, which was stimulated at first by the increase in the Pennsylvania dividend, was continued today on an increased volume of business. There was evidence to indicate large buying by an uncovered short interest, and this was particularly urgent in the stocks which rose most sharply. It manifested itself first in the Hill stocks in the all jumps in Great Hill stocks in the 9½ jump in Great Northern preferred, and 5½ in Northern Pacific. No news was forthcoming to explain the violent rise in these stocks, and it was generally attributed to the squeeze of an incautious short interest, which is particularly vulnerable in these stocks owing to the small floating supply in the market. The same influence was credited with the aggressive advance in Reading. The only news regarding that stock was the report of net earnings for September, which showed a falling off from September of last year both for the coal company and the railroad company, the decrease for all companies reaching $427,159,

The fact became obvious that there has been a large amount of short selling in the market based on the assumption that period of unsettlement and depression was certain to intervene before the election, which would afford an opportunity to cover shorts at a profit. There was an extensive retrievement of such commitments today, the weakness of their position being aggravated by the effect on the general list of the increase in the on the general list of the increase in the Pennsyivania dividend. That stock was still alive today, but it was held back from further advance over yesterday's high level by free-profit taking.

The Pennsylvania railoard net earnings for September were also published and showed that the increase in gross earnings had been practically eaten up by the

had been practically eaten up by the growth in operating expenses. There were some further conferences between railroad officials and employes over the railroad officials and employes over the question of increases in wages and reduction of working hours, but sentiment in the stock market was not affected and there was a growth of the assurance that a settlement would be effected without an interruption of profitable activity. The course of the call loan market did not interrupt the improvement in prices of stocks, in spite of the prospect of a poor bank statement tomorrow. The subtreasury had taken from the banks up to Thursday night $3,735,000, and trustworthy estimates of the movement of currency to the interior indicated a further loss on that account sufficient to ther loss on that account sufficient to bring the total decrease to nearly $7.600.000. The shifting of accounts incident to the November settlements would tend to £195 5s and futures £2 10s to £196 5s. Locally the market was firm in condecrease in loans reported last week was not a true reflection of the actual course of that item and that a rectification in this week's statement will be likely to work an expension in the item.

Foreign discounts rose today and the Bank of France and the Imperial Bank of Germany reported a considerable impairment of condition both by decrease of reserve and increase of liabilities. The finance bills from this market, while the demand for remittance from here was quite active.

Professional profit-taking on the day's advance became general under cover of the later stages of the advance in Reading. and the market closed easier and materially lower than the highest prices of the day.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Liquidation by local holders caused moderate weakness today in the local wheat market, the December delivery closing at a net loss of 146%. Corn was down 14614c. Oats were a shade higher. Provisions were 71/2 to 171/2@20

Sentiment in the wheat pit at the opening was inclined to the buying side and trading was active. The factors for higher prices were firm cables, small receipts in the northwest and a decrease in the Argentina shipments from 968,000 bushels last week to 592,000 bushels. Crop advices from Argentina were also of a bullish character, one report claiming that the crop in certain provinces is deteriorating because of an absence of rain. This news caused considerable buying by pit traders during the first half-hour. The market gradually eased off, and late in the day became quite weak. A feature of the late trading, however, was the realizing sales by local holders, who were induced to sell by a break in prices of wheat at Minneapolis. The close was Sentiment in the wheat pit at the opening: December, 6.10@6.15; January, 6.25.
